State Controller Harry B. Riley reports that appropriations and gifts to incorporated cities of California from other agencies aside from the cities themselves, have increased 445 per cent in ten years, growing from the paltry sum of $5,418,473 in 1930 to $29,536,651 in 1940. That is a lot of money to dole out in a year's time. We are not attempting to say we do not pay into this reservoir, but we do say in all frankness that we, as a community of more than 800 population, are not getting our share back. The grants to the counties of the state, in which we do share to some extent, have increased 251 per cent in the same ten years, but most of this goes to unemployment relief, educational purposes, charities and highways. Give this some though before the next incorporation election.

We are all inclined at times to moan about things which are beyond our control—the weather, business, taxes and what not. However, when we stop and think, or look around us, and see the many advantages which we enjoy, we should be ashamed of our attitude. We are indeed fortunate in many ways compared with other people in various parts of the world or even our own country. And moaning about our condition is not helping a bit. Human nature, we suppose, is like that.

The future of our chamber of commerce is in a percarious balance and will either survive to become a great community asset with the moral and financial backing of all its members, or will go into the discard. Standing still is impossible. There should be only one course in a community where the chamber of commerce can mean so much, but the apathy and even opposition, in some instances, may predominate. The answer is up to every individual member as to what the future holds for the organization. It may be that we can do without the things which the chamber of commerce does and can do, but by all means we should not. The question is not, as we have often heard, "What has the chamber of commerce ever done for me?" but "What can I do for the chamber of commerce?" We could numerate scores of things which the chamber of commerce has done in the past. It has been behind every worthwhile project which has ever been sponsored here. The accomplishments perhaps have not been ballyhooed, but we ask you to recall the past and then ask what the chamber has done. You will find the answer. Now, however, is the time to look into the future. If we want a chamber of commerce and the benefits which can be derived, then the chamber must have our support and we don't mean half-hearted acquiescence.

Suicide Victim Identity Still Local Mystery

Murder Theory Scouted As Examination Made Here

FINGERPRINTS FAIL

Deputies Still Busy Tracing Clues to Establish Identity

The identity of a man whose body was found slumped behind a large rock near the Tahoe Southern Pacific tracks in the western part of Truckee last Thursday remains a mystery despite the efforts of sheriff's deputies to solve the puzzle.

Deputy Sheriff N. F.Dolley, who is conducting the investigation with Deputy Sheriff Fred Williford of Nevada City, said that a check of the finger print department of the state failed to reveal any clues and the prints are being sent to the federal bureau of identification and the war department.

Graveside rites were held last week at the local cemetary for the man, evidently a suicide victim. The Laity Funeral Home had charge of the burial.

Rumors that the man may have been a murder victim because of a number of bruises on his head were scouted by officers when Dr. J. H. Bernard, who conducted an examination, said the bruises were only superficial and may have been caused in a fall. There was evidence of alcohol in the stomach.

The contents of the pockets revealed a pipe and tobacco pouch, a safety razor, soap and a one cent piece. There were no marks of identification whatever. The man was about 55 years of age, dressed in cheap but clean clothing and was probably a transient workman. The gun, clutched in his right hand, was a small calibre obsolete revolver with one bullet fired.

Supervisor Issues Rules For Fires in Local Forest

Supervisor Guerdon Ellis of the Tahoe National Forest has declared that extreme hazards and dangers of forest fires exist between now and mid-October.

Under authority vested in Ellis by federal regulations and the regional forester, the following instructions are to be in effect until October 15 and are issued for the benefit and guidance of all residents and visitors of the Tahoe National Forest.

Camp fire permits and a shovel and axe are required of all motor and pack train travelers camping in the forest. These permits are free and are good for the entire season of 1941. They are required for all camp fires, including those in the open, trailer houses and gasoline stoves. These camp fire permits do not authorize the burning of debris, trash, brush, slash or grass. For such burning it is necessary to secure a burning permit from the district ranger in whose district the burning is to be done. The camp fire permits are invalid unless signed on the reverse side by the permittee and accompanied by a shovel and an axe. The shovel must have an over-all length of 36 inches with a blade 8 inches wide. The axe must have a length of 26 inches with a head of 2 pounds. Camp fire permits can be secured from forest officers, state game wardens, state fire wardens in the the vicinity of Tahoe National Forest, from offices of the California Automobile Association, California Highway Patrol offices and other designated agencies.

Smoking is prohibited over the entire forest except at camps, places of habitation and specially posted "fag" areas. Smoking is also permitted on paved state highways. The throwing of any lighted tobacco, ashes, or any burning material or substance which may cause fire, from a moving vehicle is a violation of California Penal Code, Section 384, subdivision 6.

The entire national forest is closed to the discharge of fire works of all kinds.

Chamber Plans Revised Rates In New Project

Dues, Assessments To Be Increased If Work Progresses

Thirty-seven members and guests of the Truckee Chamber of Commerce Thursday evening attended a dinner meeting held at Donner Lake Resort where they met the new managers, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Budo and Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Osmundsen. A general discussion of the needs for a chamber of commerce with suggestions for successful operation featured the meeting.

The meeting at Donner Lake was followed by a regular meeting at the Bank of America Tuesday evening where it was decided to formulate a definite program of activities, budget for the required finances and submit both to the local enterprises to determine whether or not the chamber shall become an active booster organization or be permitted to dissolve.

F. W. Gaiennie and E. L. Loynd, members of the finance committee, reported that it is evident that a readjustment would be necessary in the dues structure if any program of promotion is to be carried on. With other members of the board of of directors they will work out a scale of operation within the next two weeks for presentation.

A number of valuable suggestions were offered by the eight attending the meeting, but because of apparent lack of interest and small attendance, it was decided not to take immediate action.

Boca Reservoir reached its capacity of 40,951 acre feet on June 18 and is discharging water at the rate of 180 cubic feet per second.

The gates of Donner Lake were opened June 17 and between 45 and 50 cubic feet of water has been flowing out.

The Farad gauge showed 655 cubic feet per second on Monday. The flow is kept at the minimum of around 500 cubic feet per second, the estimated smallest runoff which will serve irrigation needs.

Gifts To Cities Increase 445 Per Cent In 10 Years

Figures Show Cities Do Not Pay Entire Cost of Government

HUGE INCREASE SEEN

More Than $24,000,000 Gain Annually Shown In Report

An analysis of State Controller Harry B. Riley's report on the financial transactions of cities and counties shows that local taxation does not account for nearly all of the cost of operating those governmental units.

Appropriations and gifts to the cities from other agencies, principally the state, have increased 445 per cent in the last ten years Controller Riley revealed. Grants to counties increased 251 per cent in the same period.

The state and to some extent the federal government have assumed the burden of educational expenses together with the cost of providing aid to the needy aged, blind and unemployed, thereby reducing the direct tax burden on local taxpayers, Riley explained.

In 1930 the cities of California received only $5,418,473 as subventions from outside sources. By last year the amount had increased to $29,536,651, an increase of $24,118,178.

The state's 57 counties (excluding San Francisco, classed as a city) received $42,091,618 in 1930; last year they received $147,768,707, an increase of $105,677,089.

Of appropriations made to counties by the state and other agencies in 1940, $73,040,682 was for educational purposes; $43,449,219 for charities; $19,480,889 for highway and street purposes. The federal government contributed $28,872,522 in relief funds to counties.

The rapid expansion of governmental acitvities in the last ten years is reflected by figures which show that the combined receipts of state, counties and city increased from $827,807,166 in 1930 to $1,383,699,626 in 1940—an increase of $555,892,460.

A STRONG PLUG FOR ICED COFFEE WEEK

HOW TO MAKE IT AND WHAT TO SERVE WITH IT

National "weeks" of one kind and another accomplish a noble purpose at that—for they call to the consumer mind the goodness of a product which should not be overlooked.

Now comes one well worth celebrating: National Iced Coffee Week, which is ushered in (to the tune of tinkling ice) on June 22, lasts through June 29, and hopes to keep us right-minded about this delightful brew all summer long.

Make it right (two ways are given below), serve it icey and often, and along with such table-joys as are here suggested.

How to Make Good Iced Coffee

Method No. 1: Make regular-strength coffee by your favorite method. Use 1 heaping tablespoon of coffee for each ¾ measuring cup (6 oz.) of water. When coffee is made in metal maker, pour into enamel, glass, china or earthenware container; cover securely and allow to cool. Place in refrigerator if desired. To serve, pour the chilled coffee into tall glasses half-filled with ice. Serve with sugar and plain or whipped cream.

Method No. 2: Make extra-strength coffee by your favorite method. Use half again as much coffee as for regular strength brew. Pour the hot, freshly-made coffee into tall glasses filled with ice. Serve with sugar and plain or whipped cream.

Method No. 1 will require ¾ to ½ cup of cooled regular-strength coffee per serving; method no. 2 will require ½ to 2|3 cup of hot extra-strength coffee per serving.

Serving Tricks for Iced Coffee

¶ Add a spoonful of coffee, chocolate, egg nog, or butterscotch ice cream to a glass of iced coffee.

¶ Honey and brown sugar, in place of the sugar, make a honey of a drink of iced coffee.

cream flavored any of these ways: add ground cinnamon, nutmeg, ginger, mace or cloves to the whipped cream. Add a few drops of oil of spearmint or wintergreen; add a few drops of maple flavoring, or a few drops of oil of cloves. Try blending in some thick, heavy chocolate syrup, or mix in some grated orange rind.

¶ Serve iced coffee with whipped

What to Serve With Iced Coffee

Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F) about 12 minutes or until lightly browned and lsightly firm to touch. Makes 20 to 40 cookies.

Banana Whipped Cream Tarts:

¾ cup whipping cream; 2 tbsps. sugar; ¼ teasp. vanilla extract; 3 ripe bananas; 6 baked 3½-inch tart shells; 6 tbsps. shredded coconut.

Use ripe bananas (yellow peel flecked with brown). Whip cream. Fold in sugar and vanilla. Peel and slice bananas into tart shells. Cover bananas at once with whipped cream Garnish with coconut. Six servings.

Nut Cup Cakes:

2 eggs; ½ cup cream (about); 1 cup sugar; 1¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour; 4 teasps. all-phosphate baking powder; ½ tasp. salt; 1 teasp. vanilla extract; ½ cup chopped Brazil nuts.

Break eggs into measuring cup and add cream to fill cup. Sif dry ingredients into mixing bowl, add egg mixture and flavoring, beat 2 minutes. WILL YOU HELP AMERICA?

With the U. S. O. drive now underway, everyone has an opportunity to help make Uncle Sam's good army a better one.

As a way of showing its hundreds of thousands of young men that their welfare is important to all of us, the U. S. O. fund raising campaign to provide wholesome entertainment and recreational facilities for the men is worthy of unstinted support from every one of us. State Senator Robert Kenny stated a thught-provoking point when he said the other day, "Army morale is no higher or lower than home morale. No better token of unbeatable morale on the home front can be given on the home front can be given today than by aiding the United SService Organizations' drive." For morale, as Senator Kenny pointed out, means more than courage and confidence. "It means a genuine spirit of unity and solidarity between civilians and the armed forces."

Teamwork that wins really depends on more than the team. It depends on rousing support from the bleachers who refuse to let their team down. We people here in the rooting section have heard the call to do our bit.

JULY 1 IS R-DAY

Uncle Sam's Army, now well past the one million and a quarter mark, is rapidly nearing its full quota of men. With a second Registration day set for Tuesday, July1, and a new reserve of qualified persons to draw upon, R-day will apply to the estimated 750,000 youths who have become 21 years of age since last October 16. Local draft boards, as formerly, will handle all registrants. The sign-up, it should be noted, applies not only to American citizens but to all aliens as well who have reached their 21st birthday since last Registration day, or who have entered the country since then and are within the eligible age limits for selective service training. The penalty for failing to register is stringent, so to all those concerned we issue a reminder, "Don't forget R-Day, July 1!"

Giant Redwoods Contribute to Defense

Too large to fit any sawmill, this California redwood trunk is to be dropped from a considerable height and split through the middle. It will be converted into lumber for army training camps, and its tough wood will replace some metals that are on the priority lists.

Donner Party Relic Is Given City of Auburn

Auburn, June 26.— A relic of the ill-fated Donner party in the form of an old rim-fire pistol was presentea to the City of Auburn to be placed in the city's collection of historic articles.

The pistol, badly rusted with the handle and bullet chamber gone and the barrel clogged with dirt, was dug up on the spot where the Donner monument now stands at the east end of Donner Lake.

It was found among the possessions of the late William Conroy, who served as sheriff of Placer county from 1890 to 1898.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Beckley, relatives of Conroy who reside in the old Conroy home in Auburn, found the gun while going through some old trunks and presented it to City Clerk Mary Wallace.

The pistol is believed to be one of the many articles buried at Donner Lake after the party perished in the winter snows. Soldiers who visited the grounds the following spring burned the cabins inhabited by the emigrants and buried the possessions which remained.

The pistol will be placed on display in the exhibit case maintained by the Native Daughters in the lobby of the city hall.

Loyaltonian Whips Up New Idea for Fish Hook

Loyalton, June 26.— "Ole" Olson is working on a fish hook he believes will be a winner. He is fastening a couple of small hooks to a safety pin, and his theory is that when it lays on the bootom, the trout will swallow the whole works and he will then have them cinched. The minnow goes on the thing backward to the customary way. He is making up another one with the minnow headed in the opposite way, to be trolled behind a spinner. He believes he has something worthwhile but a lot of fancy hooks have been invented that didn't fool the fish a darned bit.

"I Hear a Rapsody" was rendered by all of the girls. Geraldine Rice did a tap dance to "Oh, Johnnie" while Irene Gallerani did the vocal. "Play Mates" was done as a duet by Barbara Wallace and Billy Stelzreid. Geraldine Rice played "Dixie" on the piano. A poem, "Do Your Best", was done by Norma Peterson. Marylynne Welch and Katie Hall sang two anssongs, "An Elephant Carries a Great Big Trunk" and "Said a Fine Kangaroo". Geraldine Rice recited the poem "Mousie Got Away from Kitty". A musical romance with Orlene Walters, Barbara O'Brien, Betty Mae Hall, Geraldine Rice, Norma Peterson, Billy Peterson, Irene Gallerani and Jim Astle was presented. Orlene Walters added a comedy relief. A tropical scene with Irene Gallerani, Katie Hall and Betty Mae Hall, as Hawaiian girls in costume, Norma Peterson, Geraldine Rice, as bathing girls, and Richard Astle, Billy Peterson and Jim Astle as Hawaiian boys delighted spectators. Ray Sorenson gave two humorous stories. A plantation scene with Betty Hall, Irene Gallerani, Geraldine Rice, Norma Peterson, Katie Hall, Barbara O'Brien and Norman King was presented. Lois Zurfluh recited "The Flag is Passing By". Irene Gallerani vocalized "Vieni Su" in Italian and English, "Frenesi" and "I Hear a Rhapsody", and Betty Hall did a talentd Hawaiian dance. The upper grades sang a two-part song, "My Pledge" and "Geography". Geraldine Rice told a highly amusing joke. The entire class sang "Star Spangled Banner". A current event was given by Geraldine Rice thus marking the end of the program.

The surprise guests of the day were the Tahoe City grammar school students and teachers, Mrs. Gallinger and Mrs. Dyer.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Breeden of San Francisco, who are spending part of the summer at their Lake Tahoe home at Pioneer Point, will leave for Del Monte on June 29 where Mr. Breeden will judge at the annual dog show. The Breedens will be guest stars for the Tahoe Players' group from July 8 through 13 in "Private Lives".

Collegians Bring Summer Stock Theater To Tahoe Audiences

The Tahoe Players, a group of actors drawn from Stanford University, San Jose State and the Peninsula Little Theater, will take the stage of the High School Theater in Tahoe City on Tuesday, July 1, at 8:45 p.m. The premier performance will be Mark Reed's "Petticoat Fever."

This experiment marks the first attempt on the west coast to establish a summer stock theater of the type already well-known in New England and along the Atlantic seaboard. The company will present modern comedies, mysteries and melodramas—all chosen for their entertainment value. Running a full nine-week season, each show will carry through six nights, Tuesday through Sunday.

The opener, "Petticoat Fever", is a fast-moving comedy based on the problems of a young radio operator stationed at a bleak post in northern Labrador. A plane crash brings a beautiful girl and her pompous fiance into his frigid and womanless life. The radio operator's efforts to keep the girl in his immediate vicinity, fight off the fiance and keep his Eskimo servant's love affairs in check form the plot of the comedy.

Playing the hero, Dascom Dinsmore, will be Ted Marcuse, one of Stanford's finest actors. Ethel Campion, the slightly bewildered object of Dinsmore's attention, will be portrayed by Betty Hardy, a graduate of the University of California and more recently associated with the San Mateo Community Theater in Thornton Wilder's "Merchant of Yonkers" and the Pulitzer Prize winner, "Our Town."

Frank Burt, Phi Beta Kappa in dramatics at Stanford, and outstanding performer in "Shadow and Substance" and "Hay Fever", will play Sir James Fenton, the stuffed-shirt fiance. Serena Frankel will take the role of Clara, the young lady who suddenly turns up during Act Two. Major West of San Jose State will be Kimo, the Eskimo valet, and Sam Morford of Stanford and Princeton will be the Reverend from the trading post.

Seats may be reserved by writing Tahoe Players Tahoe City, or by telephoning Tahoe City 32.

CIVIC PROBLEMS AND ELECTION OCCUPIES TAHOE CENTER MEET

Tahoe City, June 26—At a Community Center meeting held in the hall here on Thursday evening, the 15 directors elected last week cast a unanimous ballot for re-election of the incumbent officers as follows: President H. F. Droste, Secretary Evelyn Bliss and Treasurer C. W. Vernon. These three were also re-elected as trustees with two others, Marie Henry and A. M. Anderson.

The organization at this time voted to hold another election on the evening of June 30. This will be for the purpose of authorizing acceptance of money for a strip of land here which was recently condemned by the division of highways to widen a section of road.

Another matter to be voted on at the same time will decide whether the people of Tahoe City are in favor of the building of a jail by the county on the Commons near the Community Center building.

At the meeting Constable Harry Johanson brought up the matter of an urgent need for a jail here and presented blue prints of the proposed building. Johanson and N. R. Mayfield, both newly elected directors of the Center, were appointed as a committee to stake out the proposed jail site.

The plans call for a building of reenforced concrete to be hidden in an excavation in a hillside on the Commons. Both committeemen pointed out that the new jail will not be conspicuous from the highway or any other public point and that a lattice work enclosure on the lakeshore side will prevent any unsightly appearance from that direction.

Johanson further stated that, with conditions as they are at present, the removal of prisoners to jail in Truckee often works a hardship on law-enforcement officers as well as the prisoners.

It was recalled during the meeting that money was appropriated last year for the building of the jail, but at that time the people failed to comply with the request of supervisors that a vote be taken here to determine the exact site of the building.

The Tahoma general store opened during the past week for summer trade. M. Ambrose is again in charge.

The Homewood branch of Loynd's Truckee Drub opened this week for its summer season on the lakeshore highway.

Mrs. Frederick McNear of San Francisco is vacationing at her Lake Tahoe home.

WINGS for AMERICA

by Don Wiley

MEMBER, AVIATION WRITERS ASS'N

In this New Warfare the individual has largely been submerged by the machine. On the ground, mechanization leaves little room for individual exploit. And even in the air—once the realm of the Richtofens, the Bishops and Rickenbackers—the same rule holds rue. For every "Cobber" Kain there are hunndreds of bomber pilots whose job is not one of individual daring but of an almost fanatic obedience to the rules of mass teamwork evolved by 1941's aerial strategy.

But there are exceptions...

Many an RAF flyer has performed deeds of derring-do eclipsing the exploits of the aces of World War I. And not a few of those deeds have been accomplished in the excellent aircraft our own California factories are delivering to Britain in an ever-growing stream.

There was, for example, the case of the crew of a Havoc (one of those Douglas attack bombers the British are using as night fighters) which hung around a Nazi airport in Occupied France until a flight of night raiders returned, then, when the landing lights went on, bombed and gunned the very devil out of the raiders and their landing field.

A new issue of the Official Gazette, just at hand from London, records that the King "has been graciously pleased" to bestow high honors on certain young men of the air for distinguished conduct.

An example or two:

"Pilot Officer A. N. W. Johnstone ....observed an enemy bomber on the ground. Unable to destroy it by machine gun fire, he flew past the aircraft very low and succeeded in hitting it with a Verey signal cartridge which set the aircraft on fire.

In case you don't know, a Verey cartridge is fired from an oversized hand pistol. Some shooting!

Then there is Pilot Officer I. R. Stephens who flew over an airdrome at El Machina at 1000 feet, dodged a mess of anti-aircraft fire and destroyed five enemy ships on the ground. And Sergeant L. H. C. Gayfer, gunner of a bomber, who beat off the attack of a Messerschmitt 109 though badly wounded and with his station riddled with bullets.

Thirty-nine and three-quarter hour streamliner service between San Francisco and Chicago every third day, doubling the present schedule, will be put into effect in July with inauguration of the second Diesel-powered "City of San Francisco", it was announced today by Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and Chicago & Northwestern railroads.

The new 17-car "City of San Francisco" is to replace the semi-streamlined "Forty-Niner", which now makes the trip to Chicago in 45 hours. Thus, it was pointed out, de luxe streamliners will leave San Francisco every third day at3:45 p.m. and arrive in Chicago at 9:30 a.m. on the second morning.

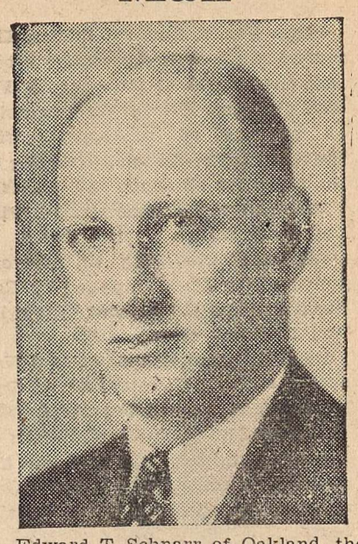

While the railroad executives are not able to announce at this time the exact inauguation date, it will be around the middle of July or slightly before, depending on completion of the last units of the new equipment, it was stated.

Three Diesel-electric units of 2,000 horsepower each, or a total of 6,000 horsepower, will pull the new train. The present "City of San Francisco" is powered by three 1800-horsepower units totaling 5,400 horsepower.

Announcement was alos made that considerably increased de luxe accomodations will be provided on the Los Angeles-Chicago run at the same time. A new 17-car "City of Los Angeles" will replace the present 13-car train of that name as the running mate of the larger train now in service, with departure every third day.

The second "City of San Francisco" will be jointly owned and operated by Southern Pavific, Union Pacific and Chicago & Northwestern, while the latter two roads will own and operate the new "City of Los Angeles". Total cost of the two new trains is in excess of $4,000,000, it was stated.

Names Local Man

Edward T. Schnarr of Oakland, the newly elected grand president of the Native Sons of the Golden West, announces the appointments of standing and special committees that will assist him in carrying out the organization's program for the ensuing year. The list contains the names of prominent Californians from the Oregon line to the Mexican border.

"The Native Sons and Daughters Central Commitee on Homeless Children is one of the two organizations licensed by the State Department of Social Welfare to place children in homes for adoption," stated Schnarr. "This work, our public speaking contest, the marking of historical landmarks and other activities will go on in capable hands."

Nevada County residents on the committees include R. L. P. Bigelow on forestry and conservation and C. W. Chapman of Nevada City, E. M. Estrada of Truckee and John R. Thomas of Grass Valley, all on the lone grave committee.

RAILWAY LABOR UNION DEMANDS WOULD COST 900 Million Dollars A YEAR

THE labor unions have made their demands upon the railways of the United States—and through the railways upon the PUBLIC. These demands are vastly larger in proportion than any they have ever made. The economical and efficient operation of the railways is vital to the nation's defense effort. Therefore, the Western Railways present to the public the following facts:

The labor unions representing engineers, firemen, conductors, brakemen and switchmen are demanding a 30 per cent increase in wages, amounting to 190 million dollars a year—although their present rates of pay are the highest in history.

Other unions representing a greater number of railway employees are demanding wage increases ranging as high as 95 per cent—averaging 47 per cent—and amounting to 580 million dollars a year—although their present rates of pay also are the highest in history.

Thus the wage increases being demanded by the labor unions amount to 770 million dollars a year, an average increase in excess of 41 per cent.

In addition, certain of these labor unions have demanded advances in their pay not included in the above figures, and more rules for the creation of unnecessary jobs.

The situation, then, is this: The total cost of complying with all the demands made would be approximately 900 million dollars a year!

The average weekly earnings of railway employees are now 15 per cent higher than in the peak year 1929, while the cost of living is 12 per cent less.

The demands of the railway labor unions are being made when the entire nation has just been asked to make a supreme effort for National Defense.

The railways cannot meet these demands without a great increase in the cost of transportation. They exceed by more than 700 million dollars the income that the railways had left after paying their annual expenses, taxes and charges in 1940.

The railways have a vitally important job before them. They need all their resources to continue adequately to serve you and contribute effectively toward the National Defense Program.

My Place In The Sun

by DOUG BARRETT

The handwriting on the wall need not always delve into the mysteries of the days to come. I have in the paricular handwriting on the wall of the Odd Fellows Hall on the charter of General Barry Post No. 35, Grand Army of the Republic, issued in 1885. I looked it over and got to wondering who these men of the past were, and so wondering, began asking questions of Bill Englehart and Bill Bottcher and they gave me a line-o-type or three about most of the Civil War vets on the list. First was Pierce Laffan, an active lodge member in more than the GAR, and a sportsman of considerable reknown. C. H. "Charlie" Barton was "Butch's" boss in the woods and on the ice at Prosser Creek many years ago. Denis Burkhalter owned what is now the bend in the road of Hirschdale and what was then the thriving timbering community of Camp 18. I. G. Booth was a pioneer druggist in Truckee. Daniel McPhetres was a state of-Maine man and a red, white and blue patriot of the old school.Sam Smith, an uncle to Justice C. E. Smith, was quite a handy man when it came to making something out of nothing—having made violins from wooden egg crates and a bone tooth to fill a vacancy in his own jaw. Then there was T. L. "Tom" Smith, who was Dan Smith's father. Abner Weed was a lumber man who left here, became a state senator and got the town of Weed named for him. I. "Jake" Lambrecht was a county employe here and John N. Hubbard is known to my historians as the father of Matey Hubbard. Unidentified in preliminary research are D. W. Thorndyke, H. C. Campbell, Ben F. Tackaberry, Daniel B. Farver and Walter G. Case. If anyone can give me a line on any of these or further information on those Grand Army veterans, I'd sincerely appreciate it and willingly award you your degree in the college of hot-stove history.

STREET SEENS—Vern Shattuck and his aide-de-Kamp swamping off the sidewalk before the Donner Theatre....Jack Sanders wage slavin' for brother Orlie for the summer recess ....Ang Besio, Bob Bowers and Miss Gini cow cussin' in front of Walt's Market....Judge Smith (no connection with Yard Bird Smith) cruising around in his transfer truck....Mrs. Tony Filipcic walking with Granddaughter Pernanne Kielhofer ...Cecil Edmunds and Dick Joseph talking in undertones in the doorway of Kinne's barber shop....Bert T. Izaac Walton' Weeden passing the time with Watchman Bianchi....some wise canary whistling "High on a Windy Hill" on Commercial Row....don't rub it in!

I drew a conclusion at the end of a disjointed discussion of politics and social problems heard last weekend (in which I took NO part) that people are universally broad-minded. They are willing to admit two sides to every question—thier side and the wrong side.

While I'm still on the page, I want to add mine to the long list of names of Dan Smith's well-wishers. Dan is mighty miserable in Oakland and if ever a man deserved the prayers of his townsmen, Dan does. He has worked hard and long in the interests of his community and is too valuable a citizen to be long missing from the scenes of his benefactions.

SHELL DEALERS WORK APPROVED

Suggestions to spruce up for motor-car visitors lauded

With a number of local merchants already having shined up their places of business, the drive to prepare Truckee and Lake Tahoe for the thousands of automobile tourists expected here this summer is making good progress.

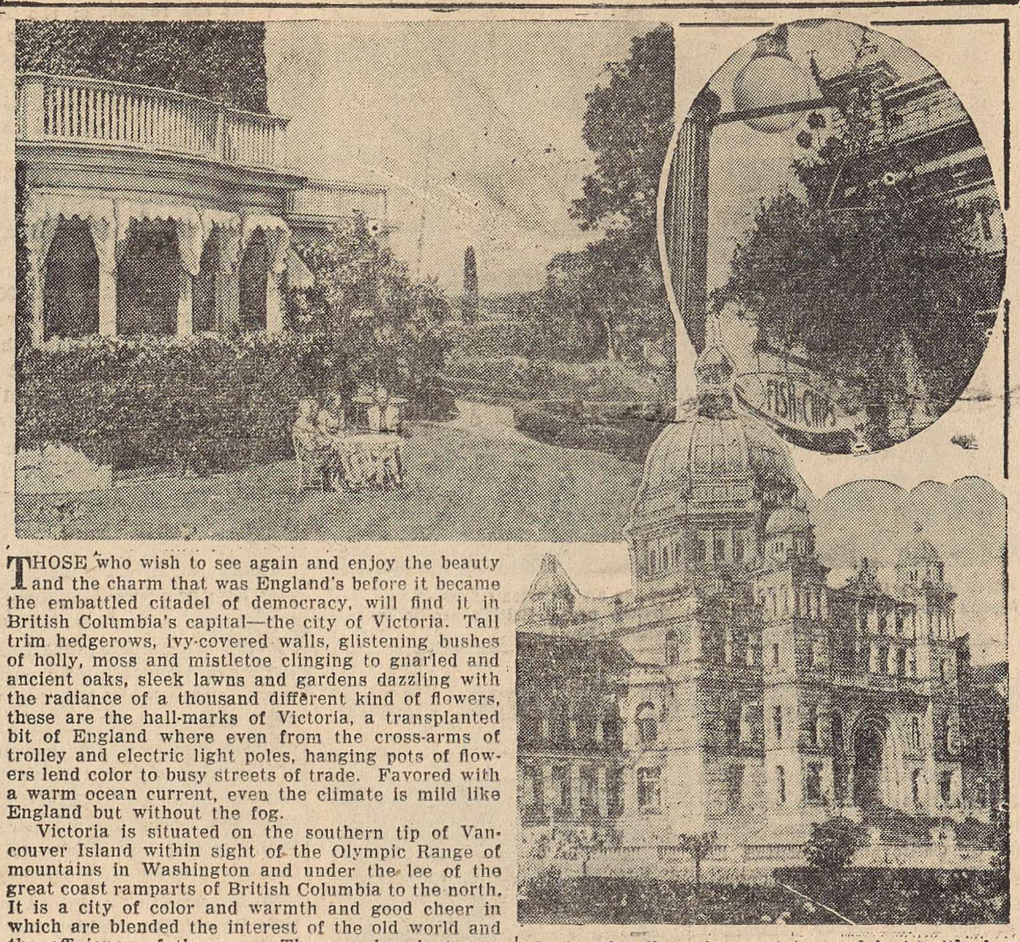

"This clean-up campaign should result in extra business as well as valuable publicity for Truckee and Lake Tahoe," Editor Walter Barrett of the Sierra Sun stated today.

Crediting local Shell Service Station Managers and Shell Dealers with inaugurating the drive, Barrett said, "They have set the pace by pledging to keep their restrooms up to the rigid standards specified editorially by Good Housekeeping Magazine at all times. This means spotless toilet and washbowl facilities—clean mirrors, walls and floors—and plenty of soap and towels."

VICTORIA IS CANADA'S ENGLAND

THOSE who wish to see again and enjoy the beauty and the charm that was England's before it became the embattled citadel of democracy, will find it in British Columbia's capital—the city of Victoria. Tall trim hedgerows, ivy-covered walls, glistening bushes of holly, moss and mistletoe clinging to gnarled and ancient oaks, sleek lawns and gardens dazzling with the radiance of a thousand different kind of flowers, these are the hall-marks of Victoria, a transplanted bit of England where even from the cross-arms of trolley and electric light poles, hanging pots of flowers lend color to busy streets of trade. Favored with a warm ocean current, even the climate is mild like England but without the fog.

Victoria is situated on the southern tip of Vancouver Island within sight of the Olympic Range of mountains in Washington and under the lee of the great coast ramparts of British Columbia to the north. It is a city of color and warmth and good cheer in which are blended the interest of the old world and the efficiency of the new. The war has lent new verve and animation to the scene. Today, the picturesque garb of the native Indians, the turbaned heads of brown men from Malaya and Delhi, mingle with the light blue uniforms of lads of the Royal Canadian Air Force, the darker blue of jolly Jack Tars from the Royal Navy and the Royal Canadian Navy and the blowsy khaki battle dress of Canada's Active Army. But the generous hospitality and distinctive charm of Victoria are unchanged.

North of the city, fine roads lead through hundreds of miles of mountains redolent with fern, spruce, cedar; girt by long incisive arms of the blue Pacific and rent by rushing rivers that stir excitement in every true angler's heart. It is a piece of country that looms large in the joint defense scheme of the United States and Canada but to the tourists it is a vacation land for whose manifold attractions there is no counterpart. The England that once was may never be known again except in Victoria where time and fortune and nature, unwittingly perhaps, have combined forces to perpetuate its image.

Science In The News

By ORSON D. MUNN, Litt.B., LL.B., Sc.D.
Editor, Scientific American

The technique of laboratory testing has developed into what is practically a new science in itself. Plastics constitute an outstanding example of the value of tests in building up an infant industry in a short space of time. Because of the variety of these materials and the rapidly multiplying tasks they are being asked to perform, only modern laboratory methods and a thoroughly organized testing procedure can prove their ability to "take it" before they are permitted to go out into consumer fields.

Orson D. Munn

For example, "Vinylite" plastic is subjected to the most gruelling tests by its makers, Carbide and Carbon Chemicals Corporation. Pieces of it are clamped into machines, each of which cuts, tears, presses, twists or stretches it. One especially savage contraption wrenches, presses and stretches the plastic all practically in one operation. How many times can a sample stand up against such mauling before it begins to weaken? — It has come through this trying ordeal unscathed even after 3,000,000 or more of such wrenchings.

But that is only the beginning. "Vinylite" plastic is tested to determine its resistance to tearing, abrasion, light, oils, alkalies and acids, moisture and temperature extremes. Its expansion and contraction under varying degrees of temperature are carefully checked. Its hardness, softness and shrinkage characteristics are investigated with the help of ingenious machines that record results with split-hair accuracy.

Some of the tests are designed to reproduce closely the actual conditions of use and abuse which might lie ahead of the material in a certain application. Among these are the guillotine, which has the effect of a sharp cutting blow, and the pendulum, which puts shear resistance to progressively greater strains.

Other tests establish and measure qualities that are mysteries to most users of the products made from "Vinylite" resin. Dielectric strength, or insulating value, are high even for a plastic. Water absorption is so low that it can be considered non-existent for most purposes. This in turn bears on the true water-proof quality of the material when processed into thin sheets.

One of the most interesting of all test series, used for many different substances, is known as "accelerated aging." Like the medieval torture chamber which turned a man's hair white in a day, the aging effects of years are crowded into a short period by forces such as artificial sunlight, with its ultra-violet and infra-red rays, and artificially high temperatures. Running simultaneously, of course, are full-time, slower and more natural tests which will later corroborate the findings of the accelerated aging devices.

Now tried and proved in many applications, "Vinylite" resins are expressly designed for the jobs they are expected to perform. Precise standards are necessary in order to give desired results in strength or phability or appearance, without sacrificing other equally necessary but less obvious qualities. The chemist finds his responsibility for conclusive advance testing an expanding one — and one of growing significance to industry and public.

—California has 150,000 needy aged who will receive assistance during the next fiscal yeear.

—A new table wine named "Winkler" has been developed from a "rogue" white grape, found growing in a black grape vineyard.

TAX STUDY GROUP ANALYZES S. R. A. DATA IN COUNTY

The number of needy unemployed persons receiving aid under the SRA in Nevada county on May 31 was 53 per cent of what it was one year before, on May 31, 1940, California Taxpayers' association stated today, analyzing the trend of the SRA case load in California counties during the past year.

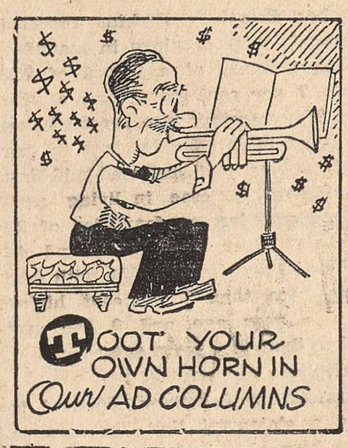

During the year, SRA cases in the county at the end of each quarter were as follows: 95 on May 31, 1940; 66 on August 31; 61 on Novermebr 35; 70 on February 28, 1941; and 50 at the end of May of this year, the association found.

If the number of SRA cases in the county at May 31, 1940 is considered as 100, the trend in the number of cases in the county receiving aid from the SRA at the end of each 3-month period during the year is as follows:

May 31, 1940	100
August 31	69
November 30	64
February 28, 1941	74
May 31	53

This trend, the association stated, reflects both seasonal fluctuations in demands for unemployment relief and the increase in employment generally.

"Anyp lan to take care of this problem of the needy employable unemployed should take into consideration the down trend in the case load and increasing employment throughout the country, as well as the numbers most recently on the SRA rolls," it was pointed out.

National Defense

President Roosevelt, in a special message to Congress, said that Germany had tried to drive the U. S. off the high seas by the "ruthless" sinking of the U. S. merchantman Robin Moor in the South Atlantic and proclaimed this country will not yield to such "outrageous and indefensible" acts of "an international outlaw." The President said if the U. S. yielded on the issue, "we would inevitably submit to world domination."

The President froze all funds and other assest in the U. S. of Germany, Italy and all invaded or occupied European countries and the State Department directed the German Government to close all its consular establishments here not later than July 10.

The President said he froze German financial facilities here to prevent their use in ways harmful to national defense. The State Department said German consulates were ordered closed because their activities had become contrary to the welfare of this country.

The Justice Department instructed customs officials and immigration officers to prevent Germans from evading the order freezing German assets by leaving the country. The State Department ordered U. S. diplomatic officials "in certain countries in Europe" to deny American entry permits to persons likely to become agents here for foreign powers.

Sub-Contracting

Donald M. Nelson, OPM Director of Purchases, speaking in Pittsburgh, said the problem of plants faced with a shutdown because of shortages of materials for civilian goods can be met by the cooperation of local business, labor, government, civic groups and banks in seeking defense work.

"No manufacturer is likely to get many defense contracts unless he is willing to display the same ingenuity, persistence and energy in going after them that he would in seeking normal business," Nelson said.

Priorities

The OPM Priorities Division announced the establishment of regional offices throughout the country to advise businessmen on priority problems. Offices in Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Chicago were opened this week and other will be opened soon.

The rationing of rubber was announced to cut down the amount going into civilian consumption in the form of auto tires, inner tubes, boots, garden hose, shoes and 30,000 other consumer items. The OPM said there is a sufficient supply of rubber on hand but it wished to build a large reserve.

Prices

OPACS Administrator Henderson announced he intends to hold bread prices "to the absolute minimum reflecting cost increases" and asked bakeries to consult with his office before raising prices. Henderson also stated rumors of ceiling prices for scrap iron and steel have caused some hoarding and unless this practice stops the OPACS will take 'vigorous action'. The Department of Justice announced a Federal Grand Jury in Chicago indicted 69 companies and individuals on charges of fixing prices in the pea canning industry. The Department said the indictments were the first in a nation-wide investigation of food marketing and pricing.

Labor

The President, in a memorandum to OPM Directors Knudsen and Hillman, stated that "industry must take the initiative in opening the doors of employment to all loyal and qualified workers regardless of race, national origin, religion or color....Our Government cannot countenance continued discrimination in defense production."

The OPM Labor Division announced a two-year agreement by the Gulf shipbuilding industry to provide wage increases, a standard base rate of $1.07 an hour for skilled mechanics, time and a half for overtime, double time for holidays, adjusment of wages at specified periods according to living costs, an no strikes or lockouts. The OPM has also submitted a similar agreement to 55 Atlantic shipyards.

Living Costs

Labor Secretary Perkins reported average hourly earnings in manufacturing industry at a record of 70.8 cents, 7 per cent more than a year ago. The secretary also reported cost of living in large cities rose 0.7 per cent between mid-April and mid-May, making an incresae in living costs of moderate-income families of 2.6 per cent since June, 1940, and 4.4 per cent since August, 1939, with food costs more than 5 per cent higher than a year ago and 9 per cent higher than two years ago.

Agriculture

Agriculture Secretary Wickard issued a statement that "to date we have been able to buy only half the amount of cheese we wanted by the end of June (for lend-lease activities) and less than two-thirds of the amount of evaporated milk. The output has increased but we need more." Wickard said increased prices for milk going into cheese and evaporated milk, supported by Government purchases, should yield farmers a higher return than any other dairy product.

Speaking at Syracuse, N.Y., Mr. Wickard said the food situation in Europe is such that if the war continues for a long time the issue may finally be "who can feed the people, the dictatorships or the democracies? Therefore food reserves may be more important than munitions reserves."

Oil

President Roosevelt placed all petroleum products under export licensing control. Defense Petroleum Coordinator Ickes, working to overcome the shortage of oil on the East Coast due to shortage of transport facilities, requested oil shippers not to sell petroleum products for foreign shipment with consultation with him. He also ordered Customs officials to halt the shipment of 240,000 gallons of oil from Philadelphia to Japan in order to conserve oil in that area.

The Maritime Commission announced no American owned or controlled tankers are carrying oil to eGrmany, Italy or Japan. Price and Civilian Supply Administrator Henderson asked petroleum refiners not to raise prices without prior consultation with his office.

The Census Bureau reported that if the 30.000,000 American motorists would reduce their driving speed 20 per cent, the annual saving in gasoline consumption would amount to 4.600,000,000 gallons.

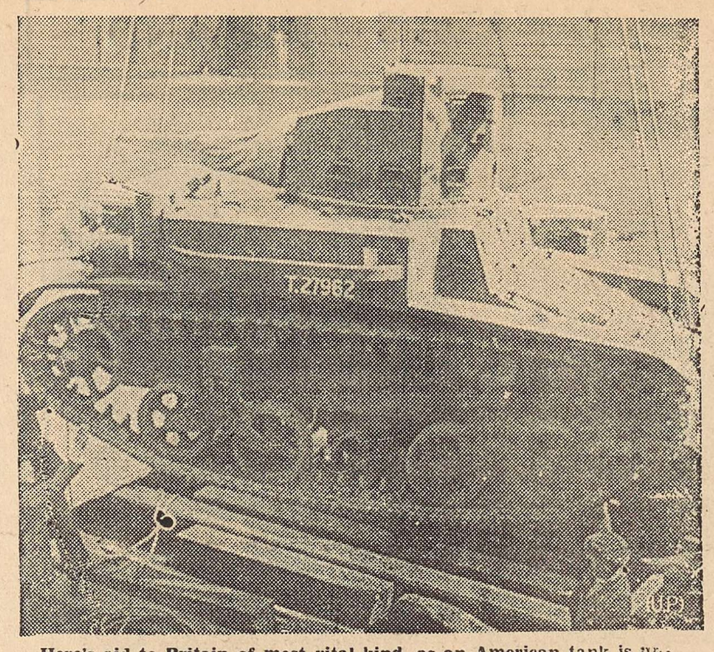

Air

Assistant Secretary of War Lovett, in a radio address, said "within a year we shall be geared to turn out 50,000 planes a year for as long as the emergency lasts." Lovett said the Air Corps is increasing the number of pilots in training from 12,000 to 30,000 a year and the number of mechanics from 45,000 to more than 100,000. He said the Air Corps is nearly one-fourth of the entire Army and only the Infantry is larger.

Army

The War Department announced trainees will be permitted to volunteer as parachute troops. Heretofore, only Regular Army soldiers were chosen. The Department authorized construction of field houses at 25 Army posts to provide facilities for basketball, boxing and wrestling, and other indoor sports. Each field house will accomodate between 2,750 and 3,750 spectators and cost approximately $77,000 each.

Shock Absorber for Defense Slack

With the endorsement and support of representatives of three great religious faiths, Congressman Jerry Voorhis of California presented his proposal for a post defense economic adjustment commission to a subcommitee of the House Labor Committee on June 24.

Voorhis' resolution, which is somehat similar to a resolution offered in the Senate by Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York, carried out a recommendation made last year by a national conference on unemployment conducted by representatives of the Catholic, Protestant and Jewish faiths. Leaders of great labor organizations, of industry and finance, of consumer cooperatives and of the educational world will join the leaders of religion in support of the bill.

The resolution would create a commission composed of representatives of Congress and the executive departments, of organized labor, finance and labor, of consumer cooperative oganizations and of religious and educational groups.

"Passage of this resolution will mean more to the morale of our people than any other thing we could do in my opinion," the author said. "The one question they are asking most frequently is whether, after this period of great defense spending, struggle and effot is over, there will result another severe depression with millions of people out of work or whethe we will begin now to lay cornerstones of action upon which a real American New World may be built. The inspiration and impulse for the creation of such a commission came from the Inter-Faith Conference held in Washington last spring where in leaders of three great religious faiths, Catholic, Protestant and Jewish joined for consideration of the problems faced by America."

Samuel Abrahams, factory manager for the Plant Rubber and Asbestos Works, California firm, tests a piece of 85 percent magnesia manufactured under new process. His company is rushing to completion at Emeryville a new factory that will turn out this precision moulded insulation to fill national defense orders. The Advisory Commission to the Council of National Defense has issued a Certificate of Necessity to the new plant. (Pabco)

FORD COMPANY IS 38 YEARS OLD

Dearborn, Mich., June 26— The Ford Motor Company, celebrating its 38th anniversary this month, enters its 39th year with its vast production facilities being expanded for the national defense. Huge new plants are being completed for the production of bombers and airplane engines and a long list of motorized equipment is rolling off Ford assembly lines.

Henry Ford's vision of the automobile as cheap transportation for the masses revolutionized industry and brought far-reaching changes in the American way of life by putting the country on wheels. Starting back in 1903 with only $28,000 in cash and an idea, the company has had one of the most amazing growths in industrial history. In 1913 Henry Ford gave the world the modern production line and a year later he electrified the country with another inovation, the $5 daily wage. At the same time he cut the working day from 9 to 8 hours.

During World War I the Ford company, even then developing into an industrial giant, set production records in the building of such diverse aricles of military equipment as Eagle boats, Liberty motors, gun caissons and tanks. Twelve of the company's assemly plants were turned over to the government outright. It was this hectic era which gave birth to the Rouge, now the largest single industrial plant in the world. The present "B" building of the Rouge was the main bilding of the plant Ford erected in 90 days to build Eagle boats for the Navy.

Last April 29, the 29,000,000th Ford car rolled off the assembly line at the Rouge. No other manufacturer has produced as many.

Of all his contributions to American life, Mr. Ford is proudest of the part the low-priced automobile has played in knitting our civilization closer together. He believes that the improved roads of tomorrow will carry sill further the decentralization of industry and the elimination of slums.

SENATOR SEAWELL EXPLAINS STAND ON STATE RELIEF

Sierra Sun June 19, 1941
Truckee, California.
Dear Mr. Barrett:

The death knell of the California S.R.A. was sounded when the Legislature adjourned sine die last Monday night operating under stopped clocks from Saturday noon.

Senate Bill 133, which was passed by both houses and veoed by the Governor, failed to become law because the Senate did not override the veto—although an attempt was made on three seperate occasions to accomplish the purpose.

I have always believed, and still do, that the county should administer relief through an intergrated program with other categorical aids. This, however, could not become law and, realizing it would be a great mistake to adjourn the Legislature without attempting some form of compromise, I injected myself into the S.R.A. fight and offered two compromise bills in hope they would at least bring the two conflicting factions together that they might agree upon some form of legislation that would not completely abolish the S.R.A. immediately and pass the relief load back upon the local taxpayers. The bills introduced were not perfect by any means, but were far better than what we now have, which is nothing, excpet that California real estate in the various counties will have to bear the burden of relief.

In my estimation, this problem and its far reaching effect upon local taxpayers is not one where two different philosophies should collide to the extent that the whole program be junked rather than make a sincere, honest effort to work out a program of compromise to prevent a calamity.

Administration and anti-administration forces adopted a dog in the manger attitude, not giving an inch in either direction, which places the innocent third parties, the relief recipients and the local taxpayers, in the position of receiving the blunt ultimatim that "we do not care what happens to you as long as we are able to preserve our particular philosophy in regard to the relief problem."

I am advised by relief experts that Los Angeles County alone will have to assume a $500,000 additional burden monthly as a result of this action. This also applies proportionately to other large metropolitan areas where the relief load is the heaviest.

Legislation is one thing and common decency is another, and I never can agree with either party that to do nothing is good legislative activity, nor is it good administrative judgment. When the time that public officials can not sit down with an open mind and discuss state problems honestly and come to an understanding for the public good then democracy fails and dictatorships come into being. This, to me, is what happened in Sacramento in the closing days of the session. Both sides dictated to the other what they could have or could not have with the ultimate result that the innocent people involved are the sufferers and not those who failed to exercise common judgement.

The Governor states he will not call a special session. The majority of the legislators state they will not vote any funds for relief as long as the state has anything to do with its administration. With this deadlock confronting us, I personally do not know what the future holds unless the people rise up and demand common sense thinking on the part of both groups and forces a decision in this matter.

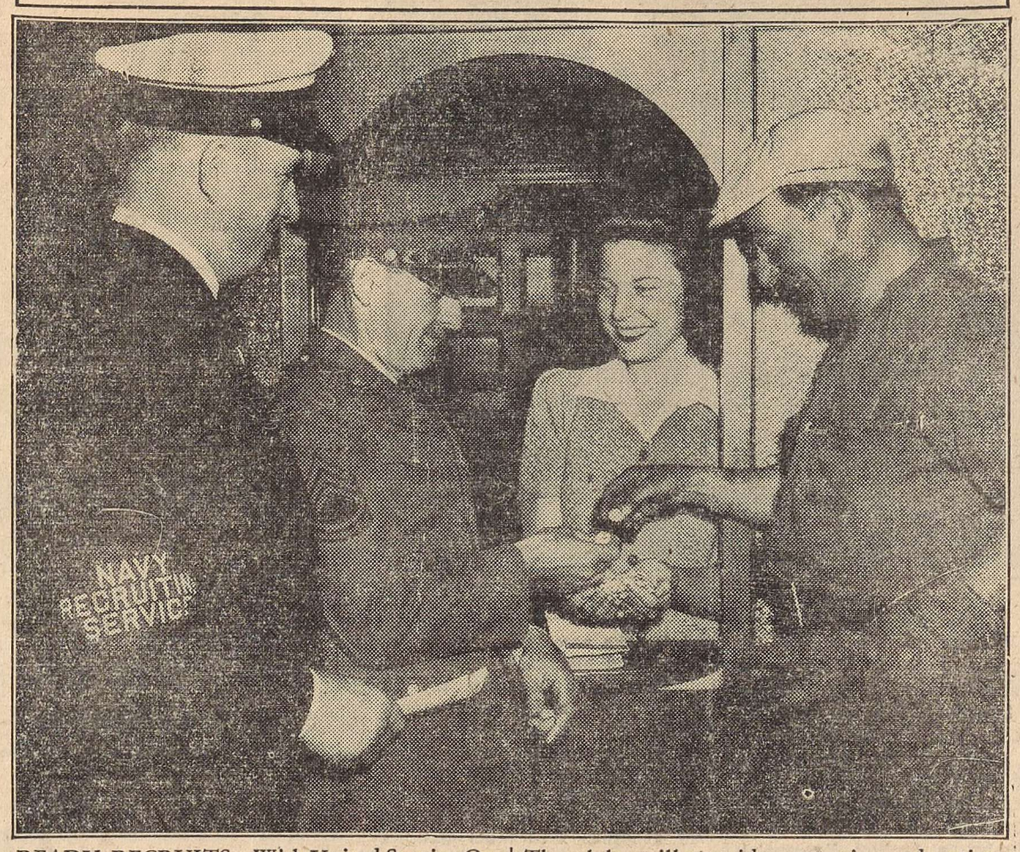

While it may not be perfect in its conception, it will at least eliminate the hardship upon the taxpayers who own real property. We then may look to the future in hope that we con work out an intergrated program that will eliminate political flurries in the future and give California a sound social welfare system.

We, who sat in the middle of this great controversy and made a sincere effort to bring about an adjustment of differences of opinion, have been criticised for jumping from one side to the other. If it is wrong to attempt to work out a stalemate such as now exists then myself and several other Senators are to be criticised but, to me, this is what we were sent to Sacramento to do—to adjust our differences and not to take a pig-headed attitude in regard to the people's welfare. I believe we followed the only course that was open although we did not succeed we did our best o prevent the Legislature and the Governor from leaving Sacramento without at least making some effort to bring about a settlement, I assume, of honest differences of opinion.

I sincerely hope the Governor will recede from his decision not to call a special session for I believe if he would call into conference various leaders prior to the convening of a special session that both sides could some to an agreement that could be presented at the special session and accepted—thus eliminating the catastrophe that confronts real property taxpayers in this state at this time, and also eliminate the confusion that confronts the various boards of supervisors in attempting to make up their annual budgets and tax rates. The Legislature and the Governor can and should work out this problem without further delay.

Sincerely yours,
State Senator, Roseville.

Illegal Light Abatement To Be Sought by Patrol

Sacramento, June 19.— Captains of all highway patrol units today were instructed by Chief E. Raymond Cato to devote at least two hours per week to light enforcement.

Cato asked that particular attention be paid to glaring headlamps and defective or illegal rear lamps.

Chief Cato pointed out that vacation season is now on and that vacationists sometimes drive cars poorly lighted. Most frequent infractions reported are one headlamp, glaring lights and no rear lamp.

Patrol officers were told to use their judgment as to whether an arrest citation or warning should be issued.

Coincident with his instruction to the patrol captains, Cato warned the public that the law which became effective January 1st last, requiring the installation of adequate reflectors on vehicles not already properly equipped is now being enforced.

LARGEST OF ALL WESTERN RODEOS IN RENO JULY 4-6

Reno, June 19.—(Special)—Largest of all of the rodeos in the west over the Fourth of July weekend is the Reno Rodeo July 4, 5 and 6. Famed as the west's fastest growing rodeo, the Reno show this year offers more than $7,000 in prize money to attract the top bronc riders and ropers in the world.

One of the colorful features of the annual show is the large delegation of Piaute Indians who attend each year from their reservation at Nixon on the shores of famed Pyramid Lake. Dressed in buckskin costumes, trimmed with beads and wearing elaborate headdresses, the Indians appear in the free street parade July 4 and in the grand entry July 4, 5 and 6. An Indian pony race is one of the features of the rodeo.

Designed to please the crowd, the program will present three bucking horse events. Professionals will compete for $1,000 while Nevada's own cowhands will seek the state title and $400 in prize. Bareback bronc riders have a purse of $300.

Always a favorite rodeo for Californians, the Reno show this year will present a colorful array of California mounted groups. From Contra Costa county will come the sheriff's posse while San Jose will send its rangers. The Bakersfield posse and the large sheriff's posse will attend and take part in the parade. The delegation of visiting California riders is so large that a special train will be provided for horses and riders.

Nevada's finest outdoor girl will be selected on July 6 and will attend the great California rodeo at Salinas as Nevada's representative.

The two most famous clowns of rodeoland, Homer Holcomb and Jasbo Fulkerson, will perform in the arena.

Traveling Around America

Leon Daniel for Grace Line

SMART AS THEY MAKE 'EM

MANY "Yankees" still hold the idea that South America is a land of lost cities, hidden treasure, head hunters, and—very primitive hotels. Imagine their surprise then, when they visit the southern continent and find scores of luxurious hostelries like this. It is the Miramar at Macuto, seaside resort near La Guaira, a leading Venezuelan port on the route of weekly 12-day cruises from New York. This fine modern hostelry provides excellent facilities for swimming, and its dining terraces offer wonderful vistas of the sea and mile upon mile of glistening beaches and palm-fringed shores.

The Miramar is one of the imposing hotels built by that amazing dictator Juan Vicente Gomez. The hostelries were planned chiefly for the lavish entertainments he gave and for the accommodation of his friends and his family. The latter embraced some ninety-nine illegitimate children and their mothers. None of them lived with Gomez yet they often were invited to large family celebrations in his home, and their photographs fairly papered the walls of his living quarters. He was very generous with them and his psuedo-in-laws — giving them land, money and houses! Gomez seemed to have had a mania for building—he constructed highways, built water works and power plants, erected imposing hotels and an Opera House, and scattered town houses, lodges and haciendas all through the region around Maracay. His friends called him the "Great Rehabilitator"—and certainly he did launch and help to carry out an ambitious program of construction.
